Photograph the colorful and photogenic Ruff

Delightful and colorful Ruff lekking at the eye level and feeding in a small water pool in front of the hides by the most important wetland reserve in Finland - Liminka Bay in Oulu area. Capture this great variation of Ruff display by joining our short break for keen wildlife photographers.

We have two sites for Ruff photography in Liminka Bay - one is a lekking site where the Ruff display on a bank of a little ditch so you can photograph them lekking at eye level while sitting comfortably in a hide.

The other site is a feeding site: here, a shallow water pool in front of the hides attract Ruff and other waders to feed, and to attract them further, we feed the birds with oat. The shallow water is great for reflection photos when the wind is calm. In bright evenings one will get beautiful backlit images of feeding waders from these hides. Sometimes the Ruff males are encouraged to lek also at this site and provide possibilities for unique lekking postures with reflections and fighting action. The only question is, are you fast enough to capture it?

Other species possible from the hides: Spotted Redshank, Common Redshank, Wood Sandpiper, Greenshank, Marsh Sandpiper, Eurasian Curlew, Black-tailed Godwit, Lapwing, Common Gull and Black-headed Gull.
